

Monthly Investment Review

- Global stock markets continued to gain momentum with investor sentiment switching gears from overly bearish to neutral. Constructive news around U.S.-China trade talks and U.S. Quarter 3 earnings beating pessimistic expectations were viewed positively by the markets. The U.S. S&P500 Index hit a fresh all-time high towards the end of October. Bond yields rose slightly for the second month in-a-row from their recent cycle lows. Global economic conditions continue to be fragile although recent monetary policy action may help. On a positive note, global manufacturing purchasing managers' indices (PMIs) show tentative signs of stabilisation. Worryingly, however, weakness in manufacturing appears to be spilling over into the services sector.
- With many bond markets remaining in flat or negative yield territory and offering little or no long-term value, equities remain the asset class of choice. They are also reasonably valued on a stand-alone basis.
- Given the current market environment, Zurich believes it makes sense to take a positive stance on equities.

Activity

Equity positions were maintained at the upper end of ranges across all of our multi-asset portfolios. With regards to geographic positions, the main bias is towards Europe and Asia-Pacific at the expense of the U.S. The funds are positively biased towards financials and technology stocks and negatively biased towards bond proxies such as utilities and real estate. Bond positions are below the middle of ranges whilst the duration of these bonds has been reduced.

MARKET PERFORMANCE

Equities

World equities (in euro terms) rose by 0.4% in October, following a strong September, and have given an impressive total return of 23.4% in the first ten months of 2019. Local currency returns in October for the major markets ranged from plus 5.0% in Japan to minus 2.2% in the U.K. The influential U.S. market was up 2.0% and remains the strongest so far this year (+21.2%). Euro currency strength in October reduced gains for Eurozone investors in a number of overseas markets. Regarding sectors in the U.S. during October, the main winners were healthcare (+5.0%) and technology (+3.8%), the latter on the back of good earnings' results. Energy stocks underperformed. Year-to-date, the best performing sector has been technology (+34.8%).

Bonds & Interest Rates

The Over Five Year Euro Government Bond Index fell by 1.5% in October but is up by a strong 13.4% so far in 2019. European bond prices have reacted positively in 2019 to weaker Eurozone economic data, benign inflation and an increasingly dovish ECB. The German ten-year bond yield rose in October moving from minus 0.57% to minus 0.41%. This remains a most unusual situation and means that buying German bonds today guarantees a loss if held to maturity. Equivalent U.S. yields also rose from plus 1.66% to plus 1.69%. The markets now expect one more rate cut (of 0.25%) in the U.S. during the cycle following a third rate cut at the end of October. Rates had already been cut in July (the first in a decade) and September. ECB rates were unchanged at minus 0.50%.

Commodities & Currencies

October saw overall commodity prices rise by 1.7% and they are now up 4.2% year-to-date. The West Texas oil price was flat during October but is up close to 20% so far this year. The gold price rose by 3.3% finishing at $1,515 per troy ounce. The copper price rose by 2%. The Euro currency strengthened against the U.S. dollar during October, partly reversing the trend for much of 2019, with the EUR/USD rate moving from 1.09 to 1.11. The rate began the year at 1.15. The British pound was particularly strong during the month.

Annual management charges (AMC) apply. The fund returns shown are net of the AMC deducted by each provider in their unit prices. This will vary for each provider, and any difference will impact the relative performance of the funds shown. The fund returns are based on an investment in the funds and do not represent the returns achieved by individual policies linked to the funds. These fund returns may be before the full AMC is applied to a policy. The actual returns on policies linked to the specified fund will be lower because of the effects of charges and in some cases a higher management charge.
