

Monthly Investment Review

July proved to be a stellar month for stock markets, with global equities up just over 10% in euro terms. In the US, interest rates rose another 0.75% at the July meeting of the Federal Reserve following on from a 0.75% hike in June. Despite this, the market now perceives the Fed to be slightly less hawkish as the US economic backdrop turns less optimistic. The US housing market is noticeably weaker as the effects of higher rates take hold.

Global economic activity continues to accelerate, helped by the rebound in Asia. However, in Europe and North America economic growth is expected to slow as suggested by leading indicators (such as PMIs) and lagging indicators (such as GDP growth). Within the eurozone, the ECB raised rates to move out of negative territory for the first time in a decade and announced a new 'Transmission Protection Instrument' to contain sovereign bond spread widening. Despite the rate rise news, eurozone sovereign bonds enjoyed a positive month. In politics, Mario Draghi resigned with general elections to follow in September.

Activity

Zurich's fund positioning remained unchanged during the month of July. Equities remain our preferred asset class. However, given the strong rebound in equities during the month an opportunity to sell into strength could materialise in the coming weeks, as the economic outlook deteriorates. Within equity markets our main underweight is North America (including Canada) which leads to an overweight position in other major regions. Our main equity sectors preferences include technology and industrials. In our view, the current level of yield available on eurozone government bonds does not offer an attractive proposition within multi-asset funds. Our short duration positioning in relation to eurozone sovereign and corporate bond allocations is maintained.

Equity & Bond % Returns: August 2022

This graph shows the performance of the major equity markets over the month of July. The returns are shown in both local and euro currencies. The bond index is the ICE BofA 5+ Government Bond Index. Source: Bloomberg, August 2022.

Market Performance

Equity Markets

World equities, in euro terms, returned 10.7% during July which was easily the best month of 2022. Stock markets year-to-date have pared losses to -4.3%. Geographically, the US (+12.2%) was the best performing stock market in euro terms, with Hong Kong the worst, returning -5.2%. Year-to-date, the defensive UK stock market house is the only major market in positive territory at 0.9%. On a global sector basis, all 11 major sectors were in positive territory for the month in euro terms, which is in direct contrast to the previous month. The more growth orientated sectors of consumer discretionary (+18.7%) and technology (+16.3%) performed best, whilst communication services was a relatively poor performer at +61%. Year-to-date energy remains the clear outperformer up 48.8%, with consumer services remains firmly in the red at -16.7%.

Bonds & Interest Rates

Eurozone bonds bucked their general downward trend in July, as the ICE BofA 5+ Government Bond Index returned 5.9%. The ECB pushed its benchmark rate up by 50bps, bringing its deposit rate to zero, as the Federal Reserve hiked 75bps to bring rates to the 2.25%-2.5% range. The benchmark US ten year treasury yield finished the sharply lower at 2.65% having started the month at just above 3%. The German equivalent fell from 1.34% to 0.81%. Therefore, yields for both of these key metrics moved lower (and prices higher) throughout the month even as interest rates were raised.

Commodities & Currencies

Commodities rose slightly during the month of July, after experiencing a fall throughout June. The overall index returned 3.1%, although both Brent and WTI oil fell over the month. Gold managed a small gain in euro terms whilst copper was down slightly. Commodity prices continue to be influenced by global economic prospects. However, it is worth noting the effect of currency fluctuations in these markets given that they are priced predominately in US dollars. After starting the month at $1.05 the euro briefly hit parity against the US dollar before finishing at $1.02, as euro weakness once again enhanced investor returns. In relation to Sterling the rate finished the month at 0.84.

Annual management charges (AMC) apply. The fund returns shown are net of the AMC deducted by each provider in their unit prices. This will vary for each provider, and any difference will impact the relative performance of the funds shown. The fund returns are based on an investment in the funds and do not represent the returns achieved by individual policies linked to the funds. These fund returns may be before the full AMC is applied to a policy. The actual returns on policies linked to the specified fund will be lower because of the effects of charges and in some cases a higher management charge.

* Performance using most recent data available.

Figures highlighted in beige indicate where the Zurich Life fund has outperformed the sector average.

Warning: Past performance is not a reliable guide to future performance. Warning: The value of your investment may go down as well as up.

Warning: Benefits may be affected by changes in currency exchange rates.

Warning: If you invest in this fund you may lose some or all of the money you invest.
